Dear hiring team,

I am a passionate programming student, specialized in application development, looking for a full-time position where I can grow professionally while continuing my studies. I am also very interested in Artificial Intelligence and Big Data.

Last year, I completed an Erasmus internship in Malta, where I developed a tourism app using Flutter and Dart and worked in a multicultural environment. I am eager to join an international company to continue improving my English while contributing my skills in web and app development.

Best regards,
Pol García.
